AURO

my world... naturally

Gentle chemistry: The natural raw materials in AURO products are processed in environmentally compatible ways and returned to the natural substance cycle after use.

Living with all of your senses

Furnishing a house to embody a certain mood, starting with a new, or old, construction and making something entirely your own out of it – this is an art. It requires not only good planning but intuition as well. Houses are living entities; the wishes of those living in them change over time. Furnishing a house so as to invite the inhabitants to feel well there, with all of their senses, is a praiseworthy project indeed.

Solid wood is the best basis for this. This naturally grown material is an individual product of nature. Wood has a pleasant scent and it speaks to all of the senses. Stimulating colours make every piece of furniture unique. With the right surface treatment you can create just the atmosphere you want. These pages present a number of ideas. Let your good taste decide – it's your best decorating consultant.

You can look forward to your own personal living landscape!

The many different paints and care products from the AURO programme bring nature into your living space. There is no more attractive way to protect your belongings. Our paints, woodstains, wood waxes and oils will help you obtain results that will meet your highest standards, - in fine colours, without petrochemical additives and without synthetic toxins and other harmful substances.

with AURO, naturally

AURO products are made using pure vegetable and mineral raw substances and are therefore extraordinarily compatible to humans and the environment, even when compared to natural paints from other manufacturers. They enhance the favourable balancing effect of open-pored wood on air moisture in the house in an ideal manner.

The Aqua paints and woodstains developed by our researchers do their job entirely without solvents and are still highly robust and light-fast. They are the only furniture paints qualified to bear the Natureplus seal of quality. No other manufacturer offers a wider range of solvent-free colours than the AURO assortment.

Their protective effect lasts longer than is the case with many harmful petrochemical products. The Aqua paints are the first and only natural paints on the market to comply with the stringent specifications of the new European standard EN 927 for technical protection and resistance characteristics in modern paints.

Top ecological product test results for all AURO products, and excellent evaluations from other independent institutes, confirm the impressive success of 30 years of AURO research in the field of "gentle chemistry."

To each room ...

Planning to fix up that old chest in the attic? Do your baseboards need a fresh coat of paint? Or do you want a colourful redesign of an entire room? Paints and woodstains from AURO will make a creative adventure out of your project.

Not just a little colour, but lots and lots, is just what every child's room needs. Colourful AURO paints and woodstains make children's eyes light up. And you don't have to worry, because our solvent-free paints are suitable for children. They have been awarded the toy certificate and DIN seal of quality for resistance to saliva and sweat.

... its own atmosphere

Our fine covering paints impart colour to lots of other beautiful objects. Depending on the effect you want to create, you can combine colours tone-in-tone or realize impressive contrasts. AURO paints are not just suitable for wood, but also for stone and metal elements such as railings and fixtures. All of the painted surfaces are then easy to clean and protected from wear.

AURO woodstains bring out the wood's natural grain. Using transparent applications you can realize particularly fresh, natural effects, reminiscent of light-filled meadows and wetlands.

Good recipes ...

A lacquered wooden kitchen table has always been a revered tradition. Waxed and oiled wooden surfaces are even more at home in the modern kitchen, because naturally treated solid wood can withstand heavy-duty use and is truly an inspiration when it comes to cooking and eating.

An oiled dining table made of wood left in its natural state exudes hospitality and congeniality. Worktops made of maple and other robust, solid woods can be readily cut to any measure. Fitting cabinets and skirtings complete the inviting kitchen atmosphere.

... according to your taste

All wooden surfaces are rendered resistant to moisture, odours and foods with wax and oil treatments with AURO products.

Minor damage resulting from normal kitchen use is easily repaired by resanding and refinishing the affected area whenever required.

Harmful or irritating synthetic substances are not used in AURO products. Instead, our essences maintain the natural biological ruggedness of the wood and its resistance to external influences.

The petrochemical wood protection agents in common use in earlier decades contained large amounts of toxic and contaminant substances. The necessity of changing this situation inspired pioneering companies like AURO to develop new natural paint formulas. Using the most advanced result of these efforts, solvent-free Aqua paints, you can now protect all wood surfaces, and many other materials as well, without harming humans or the environment.

AURO woodstains are suitable for all woods and make for a stimulating addition to a natural environment. The beauty of particularly attractive pieces of wood can be emphasized in an optically neutral manner using waxes and oils.

... a perfect appearance

Covering gloss paints are just the thing for flashy outdoor colour accents on wood, metal and other materials. The excellent protective effect of our gloss paints against moisture, wind and weather, mould and wear has been confirmed by certification according to European standard EN 927, awarded by independent testers.

Come wind come rain...

Effectively protecting garden furniture, window frames and outer walls made of wood from wind and weather used to be a conflict-ridden matter. No longer.

Down to the last detail

Attractive modern interiors are often characterized by a heightened contrast between irregular natural forms and smooth, minimalistically styled elements.

You can use AURO products for intensive underlining of such contrasts. For example, combine chrome, painted steel, glass or other smooth materials with transparently waxed wooden surfaces or decorative pieces of wood from all over the world.

A piece of wooden furniture can become timelessly modern by sanding it smooth and following up this treatment with an elegantly toned coat of paint. The interplay of natural material, proven forms and a smooth surface is well worth the extra effort.

The current trend is to new alternatives to classic furniture woods – for example bamboo or oriented strand board (OSB). AURO products can also be used to give these materials colour and perfect protection, although these materials only rarely meet these organic quality standards themselves.

Natural from A to Z

The AURO programme offers, in addition to the paints and woodstains for your furniture, wax and oil care products for your valuable wooden floors, as well as wonderful wall and ceiling paints. For daily household chores there are of course the AWALAN washing and cleaning products from AURO.

Of course we also carry the tools and accessories you will need to apply AURO products – from a large selection of first-class brushes to adhesives, cleaning agents, fillers and hand-craft materials for many different purposes.
